Mayor, Commissioner disagree over computerization's benefits

The Bay St. Louis city council Tuesday agreed to participate in a joint computerization program for county and municipal tax rolls after Mayor Warren Carver failed in attempts to have Tax Commissioner Clarence Ladner guarantee that the service would result in a personnel reduction in the commissioner's office.

Ladner said that he could not guarantee that the proposal by Hancock Bank to combine the tax rolls of the county assessor's office and two municipalities would result in a personnel reduction in the Bay St. Louis tax office.

"But I can guarantee you," Ladner said, "that we would reduce cost of the tax receipts and would save money on supplies."

Carver remained steadfast through council sessions Monday that he would not vote for the program, which would cost the city $5,887 in first year costs and $3,600 yearly thereafter, unless it could be shown that it would reduce clerical help.

In a recessed session Tuesday, however, Carver voted for the proposal after again voicing his objections.

The city had investigated several proposals several weeks earlier to put all utility billings, tax rolls and payrolls on a computerization program, but could not agree on the particular service desired or on who should be retained to handle the program.

In other business the council voted to purchase four Motorola walkie talkies at a cost of $450 a piece for the police department and took under consideration a request from Police chief Billy Carbonette that the city purchase an 18,000 BTU air conditioner for the department.

The council also, agreed to advertise for bids for drainage improvement in the Spanish Acres development

—tabled a proposal that the city issue special garbage containers to residents in exchange for the $1.50 garbage collection fee currently being assessed.

School board announces move; express fears for revenue losses

Hancock County School Board attorney Joseph Gex Jr. said Tuesday that the board would petition the county supervisors for permission to move into its new building located at 119 Main St. on July 15.

The board will pay $175 a month rent on the building and will cancel leases on the present building occupied at 142 Main Street.

In other business board financial consultant Ed LeVasseur told the board that he had the money to pay interest payments due on a GEC loan totalling $180,000 made to the county school board through the Hancock County Board of Supervisors but did not have authority to make any payment until such time as the supervisors made interest payments on their share of the $875,000 loan.

The supervisors Monday declined to make interest payments on the $875,000 which fall due Aug. 3.

LeVasseur said that the school board's interest payments amount to $10,800.

LeVasseur said that the school board stands to lose its share of monies from homestead exemption reimbursements unless the supervisors act to pay the interest on the GEC loan.

"If we don't have homestead exemption, we will have to look into other areas to update our programs," he said.

LeVasseur said that he did not think that State Budget Commission Director Francis Geoghegan's threat to withhold homestead reimbursements would "jeopardize us too much," but said the total effect on the county schools would depend on how much the state withheld.

In other business the board, passed a motion to hire Anthony Pasco as an English Teacher at Hancock North Central School for school year '74-'75 —approved a motion to hire Mrs.

Dorothy K. Pierce, Gayle Harris and Cheryl Joiner as teachers at Hancock North Central.

—hired Wilma McNatt for the Occupational Orientation program at HNC.

—approved two contracts with Harbin Sauder and Norman Ladner with salary increases of $50 a month for private school bus service.

—approved all salary increases recommended for school personnel in secretarial positions.

—agreed to readvertise for bids on repairs to the sewage treatment plant at Charles B. Murphy School.

Bonding company summoned to make good county contracts

A representative for the Fireman's Fund Bonding Company, Dallas, Texas, told Hancock supervisors Monday that he had not been able to contact representatives of Tri State or Breland Construction Companies involved in uncompleted road work within the county.

David L. Hober told supervisors that his company was trying to locate principals of the two firms to determine just why work was not being completed on surface treatment work awarded to the contractors in December 1973.

Hober requested supervisors provide him with a cost breakdown of what had been paid on contracts to date and what remained to be paid. Chancery Court Clerk John Rutherford said his office had that information and could supply Hober with the figures within three days.

Roads in question involving Tri State are Rocky Hill Road, 603 Standard Road, and Necaise and Hwy 53 Road.

County engineer Don Murray said that work on the roads was simply not complete or acceptable to either the engineers or to the supervisors.

Roads involved with Breland's contract include Chapman Road, Washington Road, Central Ave., Silver Creek Acres and Fire Tower Road.

Murray said that Breland had also failed to execute his contract or to complete work on some roads.

In other business the supervisors voted to delay payment of interest on Governor Emergency Council loans made to the county following Hurricane Camille.

The county presently owes $13,500 interest on $675,000 borrowed in 1970 and has an interest payment of $27,000 that falls due Aug. 3.

State Budget Commission Director Francis Geoghegan stated Friday he has asked the state auditor and tax commission to withhold portions of homestead exemption reimbursements to counties failing to make repayment of the loans.

Only supervisor Bully Zengarlung moved to pay the back interest but his motion died for lack of a second. Other supervisors expressed the hope that the loans would be forgiven during the next legislative session and indicated they would hold out although board attorney

Sam Favre told the supervisors they faced possible 'serious consequences' by their actions.

In the only other major matter before the board, supervisors passed a resolution to be sent to the state congressional delegation and NASA officials urging NASA make greater use of the Mississippi Test Facility (recently renamed National Space

Hospitality Center planned for former weigh station

Waveland Mayor John Longo announced this week that approval had been given the city of Waveland to make use of a former weigh station at Hwy 90 and Waveland Ave. as a hospitality center.

Longo said that he had received word Monday from the attorney general's office in Jackson that an agreement giving Waveland exclusive use of the property, which had been built by the state highway department, was in the mail.

The building which will be called the Waveland Hospitality Center will be staffed by Senior Citizen volunteers, Longo said, and will distribute maps and information as well as free hot coffee.

Longo said that a beautification committee, under the direction of Mrs. Coral Gaudet, had plans to landscape the outside of the building by planting perennial flowers and shrubs as well as commissioning a local Waveland artist Technology Laboratories) in Hancock County or return the buffer zone to the county.

The buffer zone which constitutes approximately 120,000 acres of land surrounding the NASA facility, represents a loss of approximately $500,000 annually in tax revenue to the county due to lack of industrial use.

to paint a mural on one inside wall. Blues, greens and beiges will be used as color schemes for the building to depict the sea, land and sand of Waveland.

Longo and the city of Waveland applied for use of the property more than five months ago but a decision to let the city use the property had been delayed because of another request for the property from the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber later withdrew its application.

"The aim of the center is primarily to call attention to what Waveland offers," said Mayor Longo, "but since this really is state property I feel it belongs to the entire Mississippi Gulf Coast." I am therefore having letters sent to all political subdivisions along the Coast and to the various chambers of commerce inviting them to send to us any maps, brochures or literature they would like for us to distribute."

Long Beach council seeks funds for buses

Long Beach Mayor Donnie Simmons went on record Tuesday night calling the regular city council meeting the shortest in his administration while approving a resolution to borrow $18,000 from the State Department of Education for the purchase of two 60-passenger school buses for the Long Beach District.

Harold DeMetz board attorney, read a resolution from the district school board requesting the council to advertise for bids from local banks. The board unanimously approved the resolution and will open bids at the next regular session July 6. Maximum interest rate for such a loan is six per cent according to state statute.

Other business on the agenda saw the board take into consideration two bids on equipment for the new utility van to be used by the fire department. Jack Cooke, Co., Metairie, La., submitted a bid of $3,251.51 for all articles specified by the board, while Roper Supply of Picayune bid $277.84 for seven miscellaneous lights for the van.

Two ordinances were brought before the board. The first concerned allowing motorists to make right turns on a red light at intersections within the city after stopping.

Simmons told the council he felt the State news in brief

Governor Bill Waller has urged each department of state government to reorganize for efficiency and economy during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

During his weekly news conference, the Governor noted that Mississippi has more than 150 different agencies and departments. He said, "We feel that an economy drive is essential and could produce considerable savings for the taxpayers."

The Governor said, "We will seek the advice of experts in the field of management practices and will work with each agency and department to bring about savings which may be passed on to the taxpayer, and efficiency, which makes state government more responsive to the needs of the people."

The Governor has asked each agency director to furnish him with a projection on reduction of state employees. He said, "I believe that some agencies can reduce the number of employees by ten percent, while other agencies which are classified as growth agencies cannot reduce—they must increase."

The Governor said, however, that he does not intend to eliminate any of the present state employees. He said the reduction he is calling for can be effected by not replacing employees who resign or who leave state government for other reasons.

Governor Waller announced last week that the State has received a $280,000 grant to conduct the Governor's Small Town Recreation Program. The Governor said, "The purpose of this program is to provide recreational opportunities to young people in the State's smallest communities who are unable to obtain summer employment."

The program, which will be limited to incorporated communities with populations below 5,000, is being funded by the Department of Labor and will be coordinated by the Governor's Office of Education and Training.

Three arrested after Frost Top break-in

Two juveniles and one adult were arrested early Tuesday morning at the Frost Top Drive in at Highway 90 and Second Street after Hancock County Sheriff's officers answered a call about a break-in.

Arrested were Michael Colson, 22, of Rt. 2, Bay St. Louis, and two juveniles age 16 and 17. All three were charged with three counts of burglary and grand larceny.

Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said that authorities found the three suspects inside the Frost Top Drive in at approximately 3:30 a.m. Tuesday morning. Entry, he said, had been made through a rear door.

Ladner said that a search of the immediate area turned up $447 worth of fireworks hidden in grass behind the drive-in that had also been stolen from a fireworks business adjacent to the drive-in.

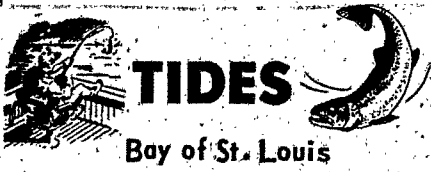

Ladner said the three males had also admitted to a burglary earlier Tuesday morning at Benigno's Liquor Store on Railroad Ave.

Authorities said $500 worth of liquor was recovered from a lot on Conrad Lane in Waveland, Miss.

A $3,000 bond was set for Colson with a hearing next Monday night. The two juveniles were released on custodial bonds and will appear before Hancock County Youth Court.

Police are reportedly still looking for one other suspect in the case.

Making the arrest Tuesday were sheriff's deputies Robert Tartavouille and James Lee and Bay Police officer Robert Dorsey.

The Story of Parchman Prison farm or political prey?

This is the third in an in-depth series on the controversial Mississippi state penitentiary at Parchman—a documentary of its past, present and future.

by Adoree Shortle
Echo News Editor

"I really don't care what went on before I came. I'm only interested in what happens in the future," Jack Reed told the staff when he arrived at Parchman in mid-December of 1973.

Commendable as the implied principle may have been, Reed could not totally ignore past administrative deficiencies at the penitentiary. Understanding Parchman's tragic history and a concise knowledge of its current imperfections were vital to the reality of a program of drastic improvement.

What Reed actually meant by the statement was that he would not embark on a mass indictment of former and present associates of the prison, nor was he interested in the job as superintendent. Judging from news reports which had reached California, he was under the delusion that the administrative, security and fiscal affairs of the prison farm were the only problematic areas.

He regarded the job as a challenge and was relentless in his determination to prove that the penitentiary could be developed into a model institution.

When he arrived, he found it to be otherwise. Parchman had many of the internal aspects of the infamous Devil's Island. More than that, corrosive external political influences, as with Devil's Island, proved to be of a greater magnitude and far more destructive than munitious prisoners.

He discovered a sprawling 33,000 acre prison farm operating on an $8.2 million budget, which did not include the farm.

He found 1,867 inmates, 1,200 of whom were black and 69 women, crammed in 17 over-crowded camps. Federal court monitor T. Wade Markley, who presented a 15-

"free world" employees to control close to 2,000 prisoners. For years the prison had operated under a system of armed trusty guards, inmates who were elevated to a position of supervision over fellow inmates. Guardsmen were full trustees who carried firearms and, with little or no proper discipline over them, too often took advantage of their position.

At the time Reed arrived, there were cases of prisoners serving life sentences for one to three counts of murder being made gunmen.

In his lengthy report, Markley said of prison employees and security, "...many employees are poorly equipped to meet the criteria for supervising inmates... discipline of inmates is largely in negative terms and punishments inflicted are excessive."

The extent of crime within the penitentiary pretty well matched that of a large metropolitan area in the free world.

According to prisoners still in Parchman as well as former inmates, the sales and use of drugs, liquor and other contraband flourished as well as prostitution, forced homosexuality and fights among prisoners.

"The thing you needed the most was a knife or a razor blade," a prisoner told this reporter. "If you didn't have the money to buy one from a guard, you made one out of the bed springs or a fork or anything else you could find." A weapon was necessary for survival, he said, because the prisoner, male or female, who had nothing was prey to the others.

Periodic shake downs by prison officials were ineffective and failed to decrease the incidents of abuse.

Stories are told of prisoners waking in the morning and finding the man in the next bed lying in a pool of blood with his throat slashed wide open. In one case, the slain man had been "guilty" of homosexual intimacy with another inmate.

In the women's camp, a black girl was badly stabbed by a white inmate with a pair of scissors because the black girl refused to remove her washed clothes from the drying lines behind the camp.

Prisoners have accused camp sergeants of inciting fights among prisoners in order to ruin a disliked prisoner's eligibility for parole. Too often the allegations have proven to be well founded.

The ratio of escapes rose drastically to the point where the county grand jury was averaging 33 escape hearings per session. By last March, improvements in the administration and security had reduced the number to three.

FEDERAL COURT ORDERS
Continuing investigations of the penitentiary by federal district courts in Greenville, started by civil rights lawyers in 1972, culminated in a series of court orders in the spring and summer of 1973, aimed at bringing some form of relief to the institution and its inmates.

One of the first orders by Judge William Keady abolished the armed trusty system, prompting Keady to say later in Greenville, "The trusty system is gone forever in this state."

However, in the swift abolition of the system the state found itself with no alternative for filling the gap. The penitentiary had been operating under a minimal force of badly trained, largely unqualified security guards whose only effectiveness was established by the mass terror concept of armed inmates.

Without the use of trusty guards, the penitentiary board turned to the state highway patrol for help until a force of higher calibre, better paid free world guards could be retained.

Another court order in the spring of 1973 raised security guard salaries from $313 to $722 per month. Highway patrolmen were assigned to Parchman on two-week tours to serve as armed guards at each camp. Newly hired security employees were sent to the Highway Patrol Academy in Jackson for a crash course in security methods and things began to look up.

FORCED LABOR

Another area of improvement came with the separation of the prison and the farm. Originally built in 1837 the penitentiary was moved to its present Delta farmland site in 1905. One camp, a large, red brick two-story building was constructed to house the relatively few prisoners who would work the farm which in turn would feed the inmates and bring revenue to the institution.

As the prisoner population grew the farm operation expanded until there were ultimately thousands of acres of land under cultivation and in livestock. Neighboring farmer-legislators saw a golden opportunity to exploit both inmates and the farm for personal and fiscal gain and the tradition of devastation began.

In the old days, prisoners were forced to work in the fields. Cotton was the major crop and regardless of a man's age or physical condition, he was marched out to the fields and picked cotton from sun up to sun set with no recompense and only un-dependable promises of "good time" (Time off sentence) for his efforts. If he was suffering from heat stroke or any valid malady, he was treated at the prison hospital and returned to the fields. If he flatly refused to work, he was written up as a troublesome prisoner and put in maximum security, with all privileges revoked.

In desperation or just plain revolt against the injustice of the system, prisoners inflicted sometimes serious injuries on themselves to escape the rigors of the enforced work details. Men cut off their toes, slashed their wrists or deliberately crushed their own limbs under tractor wheels to force protracted hospitalization.

Opportunities for less arduous labor came with the development of the dairy (Continued on Page 4-A) DEATH ROW in Maximum Security Unit at Parchman-the end of the line for many prisoners in the state penitentiary. A group of state legislators and prison officials walk "the row" on a March 1974 inspection of the prison. Before the last change in administration, men spent months and years in maximum security at the whim of unscrupulous guards. MSU prisoners never left the building and were allowed one bath a week. Troublesome prisoners were put in the "hole", slept on the concrete floor with no cover and were given no food or water for two or three days.

After legal setbacks

State Board of Health adopts warning role

The Mississippi State Board of Health voted unanimously last week to adopt a resolution urging Gulf Coast officials to take appropriate action to inform the public of the potential health hazard that exists in the beachfront waters of the Mississippi Sound.

The 12-member board at its quarterly meeting took the action after it was informed of a ruling by the State Attorney General that the Board did not have the legal authority to require local coast officials to alert the public of the potential health hazard by posting or other appropriate measures. State Health Officer Dr. Alton B. Cobb said "that previous investigations by both the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Commission and the State Board of Health have indicated that the waters do not consistently meet standards for body-contact recreation. Dr. Cobb indicated that the Board was aware of the tremendous progress that local officials on the coast have made in attempting to remedy the situations that presently exist but the Board also expressed its concern that the residents and visitors on the coast be made aware of these conditions and their related potential public health hazards.

The Board further urged local officials to expedite the completion of their sewerage improvements to alleviate the current problem.

According to Dr. Cobb, the ruling from the Attorney General left the State Board of Health with the authority to investigate, advise, and make recommendations to local coast officials concerning the water conditions.

Dr. Cobb said that the State Board of Health will continue to evaluate and assist in the progress being made and will inform the public and coast officials of its findings through notification of local governing bodies and through the news media.

A DANGEROUSLY MALFUNCTIONING gas heater is the only source of heat in one of the men's camps, where more than 100 men are living in a cell block designed for a maximum of 70. Flames lick up through a broken spot in the bottom and the inmates cluster around the fire to keep warm. A new electric heater, barely visible in the upper left corner, had been installed for two months but was still not connected or usable in late March.

in "exposing" any particular individuals. What was done in the past, he told this reporter, is over and can't be re-done.

"What we do in the future and how well we do it is what counts," he said adamantly. A program of good fiscal management is the key to the problem, he pointed out, coupled with a complete revision of administrative and staff procedures. Decent housing for inmates was a top priority item along with a better physical layout for the entire institution.

Long range major objectives outlined by Reed put new, permanent and up-to-date housing for prisoners staff at the top of the list. Recruiting additional security staff members who would be well screened was next. Higher paid, well qualified personnel under a constant training program, as in the California corrections system, he feels, will go a long way toward decreasing internal problems that had been rampant at the prison.

As soon as he arrived, he set up a process of daily changes in staffing patterns with improved delineations of responsibilities set down. In March job descriptions for every member of the entire staff, starting with the superintendent, were being compiled and distributed to all employees as well as inmates.

DEVIL'S ISLAND REVISITED

A veteran of 11 years in the California corrections system, Reed was well aware of the controversy surrounding the man before he accepted point report on the prison last January, said "...housing and sanitary facilities are generally substandard... operation of the penitentiary consumes more manpower than would be found in a penitentiary with 2,000 inmates. The large staff is unduly expensive and will increase."

The report, as accurate and concise as it was, could probably go down in history as the understatement of the year.

Accreditation

awarded

C.B. Murphy

The Mississippi State Board of Education has announced that effective immediately, the Commission on School Accreditation has elevated Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlington to AA accreditation status. This represents the highest level of accreditation available to elementary schools.

Charles B. Murphy Elementary School was organized and began classes during the autumn of 1966. The school was built in Pearlington to replace Logtown Elementary School which was permanently closed due to land acquisitions of NASA's MTF facility. The Hancock County School System, of which Charles B. Murphy School is the newest member, has a continuous heritage extending from the ante-bellum era of the nineteenth century.

Since assuming his duties as principal in July, 1972, James D. Baldree has witnessed the rise of the school's basic accreditation to AA status. Kenneth G. McCarty is superintendent of the county school system.

The Story of Parchman

(Continued from Page 2-A) cattle were wandering untended and uncared for in outlying pastures. Close to 200 head of dairy cows hadn't been tested for Bangs disease in years, Horton discovered.

Acres of fields had grown up in weeds and others that had been planted weren't being harvested because of the lack of labor.

Sometimes in their zeal to rectify the deplorable conditions at the prison farm, the federal courts and state legislators handed down orders and laws that righted some problems, but caused new ones.

The court order to abolish forced labor cost the farm serious financial loss through a lack of work force. An earlier Senate bill, aimed at upgrading the quality of food for prisoners, stated that inmates must be given Grade A milk. The prison dairy, which supplies all milk, butter and cream to the prison, had degraded to such substandard level that Horton estimated a cost of "close to $100,000" to bring the dairy operation up to state standards.

"It just isn't worth that expenditure," Horton reported, in view of the many other needs of the farm. His suggestion to close the dairy as well as the chicken farm was not well received by the House penitentiary committee, most of whom felt that with good management all the various agriculture and livestock operations could pay off.

"They have been paying off," Horton said quietly, "but not to Parchman."

Nevertheless, Horton's year of efforts at Parchman were impressive. Under his supervision, the downward trend of the farm had been reversed and conditions were considerably improved.

REFORM BILL RULING
In section 11, 47-5-57 of the final penal reform bill which was accepted the last day of the 1974 session, operation of the farm was detailed as follows:

The entire farm, including the camp at Lambert 20 miles away, was leased to the Miss. Cooperative Extension Service for $1 a year.

The Extension Service must keep a $40,000 revolving fund for the sale and purchase of livestock and equipment. Any excess over that amount will go in to the state General Fund. The farm manager is empowered to sell cotton and rice crops according to the prevailing market and dispose of crops under certain restrictive conditions.

The Miss. Game and Fish Comm. has been given a 20-year lease at $1 a year for all timber lands in Quitman County to be used as a public game and fish management area. The Forestry Comm. continues to manage the timber operation.

The prison superintendent relinquishes all connection with the farm but may purchase crops that are for sale. The superintendent has retained 100 acres of cropland within the main prison grounds to cultivate for prison food, on a trial basis, and each camp may cultivate its own garden.

Labor for the farm will be housed at one or two locations (camps) at Parchman and at one location at Quitman. The superintendent must feed, house and clothe inmates who voluntarily work on the farm but who are under the general supervision of the farm manager. Those eligible for farm labor status are men on work release or trustees, approved by the superintendent only.

If there is an insufficient number of inmates available for farm work, the farm manager can employ "such other labor" as necessary. The superintendent has to provide security against theft, procedures must be designed to prevent inmates "roaming the premises" except in performance of work.

At the end of April, all Parchman farm labor was housed in Camp 10, an honor camp where Horton said proudly there "had never been any trouble, no escapes and the men essentially regulate themselves."

At the same time, procedures had been instigated at the dairy to bring the quality of the milk and butter up to state standards and an amazing system of records was being kept on every cow, the quality and quantity of the milk produced and a daily cost analysis run.

OVERCROWDING and deplorable living conditions in the men's camps lead to disciplinary problems, fighting and sexual perversions. Most of the filthy cots have neither sheets nor pillow cases and there are inadequate facilities for heat, storage of clothes and personal items. A top priority item on the superintendent's list was the construction of three new barracks for housing prisoners.

Mississippians asked to support Washington Festival

Senator James Eastland called on Mississippians to support this year's Festival of American Folklife which is being held July 3-14.

"Mississippi has been selected as the regional representative for this year's Festival," said Senator Eastland. "This provides our state and our people the opportunity to demonstrate to the nation the rich heritage that we possess."

This year's Festival is being held on the National Mall in Washington. Mississippi musicians, craftsmen and artisans are being featured at the Festival. One of the high points of the nearly two-week festival is the annual fiddling contest.

"Mississippi is one of the leaders of states producing good and varied types of music," said Eastland. "The Festival is featuring everything from fiddling to Sacred Harp singing to blues."

"Another feature is the quarter-acre cotton field planted by the Department of Agriculture to demonstrate one of Mississippi's most important crops. The process of making cotton cloth from the raw fiber will be portrayed by demonstrations of picking, ginning, carding and spinning the fiber. Presentations will also be made by Mississippi's timber and cattle industries."

Craftsmen will demonstrate basket-making, blacksmithing, whittling, carving, quilting, pottery-making, and represented by fried catfish and saddle and harness making. The food of Mississippi will be

Bay Little Theatre to present 'How the Other Half Loves'

Mix-match, mis-mate is the name of the game in "How the Other Half Loves," a two-act comedy by Alan Ayckbourn, which the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will present July 11, 12, and 13, at the theatre on Boardman Avenue.

The cast includes Joseph Barbo and Mrs. Michael Haas, Mrs. Sam Cuevas and Douglas Koger, Mrs. Paul Maloney, and Skip Wusnack. This is a mingling of the new and the well-known among actors. Skip Wusnack is a new face, and Kinta Maloney, who has starred backstage, has her first on-stage role.

Mrs. John McKenna is the director. Victor Frankiewicz is the producer and Mr. James Holmes is in charge of lights and sound. Vic Frankiewicz, John Holmes, Sam Cuevas, and David Hubbard are constructing the set.

The play has recently been on the bill at the Beverly Dinner Theatre, and was first seen in New York in 1971. It had a two-year run in London with Robert Morley in the part of bemused and bumbling Frank Foster.

The title of the play is a pun, including not only the dalliance of Skip Wusnack as Bob Phillips with Fiona Foster, Myrt Haas, but also the unique setting of the play where the audience sees simultaneous action in the home of the Fosters and of the Phillips.

Curtain time is at 8:15. Tickets may be purchased at the door, or at de Montuzia's Drug Store.

Summer At Gallier House

In the nineteenth century residents of the city in the hot summer months changed their homes for easier housekeeping. This cool and pleasant atmosphere is recreated at Gallier House during July and August.

The elaborate, heavy drapery is removed and replaced with lace and cotton curtains, and straw floor mats replace the carpets. Summer slipcovers and mosquito bars are also added.

"It's not just a restored home," said Gallier House Curator, Nadine Carter Russell, "It's a way of life."

Gallier House was opened to the public in July 1971 after careful restoration under the auspices of a non-profit foundation. The house is listed in the National Register of Historic Places and has received both the Vieux Carre Commission and the Chamber of Commerce of the New Orleans area awards for excellence of restoration.

An adjoining building, once part of a seltzer bottling plant, has also been restored and contains exhibits relating to Gallier's time and profession.

Drugs and your health

by John F. Russell, M.D.

Why? Why do people abuse drugs? So many letters have asked that question. It seems to be the nature of man to want to change his moods, to experience new feelings, to try out of curiosity new ways of doing things. This curiosity, this curiosity, is what has made man great. It has also brought about many new means of destruction. Drug abuse is an offshoot of the very things that have made us what we are; drug abuse is curiosity, the desire for new experiences, new feelings, new ways of doing things.

Who hasn't as a child, turned himself around and around until he toppled over, dizzy and light headed, laughing gaily at the strange feelings in his head? Who hasn't enjoyed the sensations at an amusement park, the thrills and chills, the strange feelings these rides provided?

Who hasn't tried something new even though he knows it is wrong...a cigarette stolen from daddy's package, a sip of a cocktail left over at the big peoples' party? So it is our nature to try new experiences. This way we learn, we grow, and we mature.

In the case of drug abuse, however, growth is stymied, maturation stops. Drugs become an escape from reality, a running away from problems instead of an attempt to solve them. Alcohol, barbiturates, and heroin are the ultimate escape from reality into a somnambulant state, a dream world where nothing matters. In this world there is no need to grow or mature...no problems to solve except where to get more drugs. This is the complete escape.

Hallucinogens, on the other hand are not so much a running away as a running to...a new experience. Yet, it is not a "real" experience where growth and maturity take place. Rather, it is a strange, unreal place, delightful or frightening, wild or peaceful...unpredictable! Amphetamines are for the extra push to get there faster...wherever there is. It is rightfully called "speed" as everything goes faster, including life.

The human organism seems not to be content with what he is, where he is, or how he is. Always we are looking for new, easy ways to change, to get thrills, to experience new feelings.

The problem, perhaps, is with our whole philosophy of life, this hedonistic approach to everything. The Madison Avenue hucksters have proclaimed that there is no need for depression, quarreling, or unhappiness; a pill, a spray, a cigarette, even a stick of gum will double your pleasure, bring springtime into your life, or take away all your problems.

The Declaration of Independence gives us all the right to the pursuit of happiness, and unfortunately too many think that happiness comes in a glass, capsule, or needle. It is time to wake up, to live this life in the flesh instead of a stuporous haze. It is time to realize that if we don't face our problems, we will never solve them; to understand that unless we experience unhappiness, we cannot know happiness. This life can be a beautiful and wonderful experience. Let's live it to the fullest...the natural way.

Swimming, softball, horseback riding, picnics are all part of a summer's vacation. This year the youth of Annunciation Church in Kiln added one more "picnic". Since the Church needed a new coat of paint the CYO and youth joined forces and had a scraping party. Under the direction of Brother Stan the man-power and girl-power are getting the church ready for its new look.

People once believed that wearing their coats inside out would ward off evil!

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

According to a story in the Los Angeles newspaper a few months ago, a total of $136,456 was paid to 257 widows of Civil War soldiers. The survey also shows that 291 dependent children, sons and daughters of Civil War soldiers, were still living. But as the VA observed, the widows are dying fast.

The oldest survivor was at the first of this year: Mrs. Angela Devalles Moran, who is 117 years of age. She is living in a suburb of Mexico City. But of the 257 widows still alive last October, 17 died before the first of the current year.

It seems incredible that so many Civil War dependents are still alive. The war ended 116 years ago and the last soldier who fought in it died in 1938, so the current widows must indeed have been child-brides-unless they married veterans long after the fighting ceased.

Survivors of Civil War veterans receive from the government pensions and allowance of from $70 to $135 a month. Last year 65 percent of the payments went to dependents of Union soldiers and 35 percent to Confederate soldiers' dependents. Was this because there were twice as many soldiers in the Union armies, or do Confederate dependents receive less than their Union counterparts? We shall find out, and let you know later.

Whatever the reason, the payments must be a godsend to the old folks receiving them. "Was not always thus," after the Franco-German war in 1871, for instance, the streets of the cities of both countries were thronged by ex-soldiers who were without money or food as a place to sleep and who had to rely on private charity to sustain life. And for some years after the end of the Civil War it was almost the same here, especially in the South, where the ex-Confederate soldier was suddenly thrown into competition for work with the herds of freedmen, which led to the formation and rapid expansion of the Ku Klux Klan.

And it may have been worst of all in Mississippi where the war's destruction, as measured in money, was tremendous. The noted historian, William D. McCain, makes this comment: "In 1860 Mississippi ranked third in the nation in assessed value of personal property. The losses and destruction of the war dropped the State from third to last." No wonder the widows need the money!

DIAPERY DEMONSTRATION

FOOD FOR CAMPERS
With vacation time here, many people are busy organizing their camping gear. While many campers will be camping along the road in state parks, others will be backpacking into the mountains.

Regardless of the type of camping you have selected, careful planning of your food supplies is a must. Follow the Basic 4 Food Guide when planning food needs. Each day you should include four servings of fruits or vegetables, four servings of breads or cereals and two servings of meats and milk or milk products, according to your age group. If you are planning to be more active during your vacation than you normally are, you should also include nutritious snacks.

Let's talk about problems encountered by people with campers first. Since storage space is quite limited in many trailers, you should keep this in mind when selecting food: Try selecting canned and dried foods as they require little storage space.

Many fruits and vegetables come in the canned form and require no refrigeration until opened. Dried fruits provide a nutritious snack food that takes up little space.

Many meats come in the canned form and are especially good for campers. This solves one of the greatest problems for campers—refrigeration. Less refrigeration space is adequate when the only storage necessities are for leftovers.

Bread and cereal requirements can be met in a variety of ways. They come in an almost endless form and require little room or special attention. Remember to keep them covered and in a cool spot.

Milk and milk products are very important and require special mention. The milk requirement can be met in various ways. The forms of milk you may choose from include fluid whole, evaporated, skim, dry and buttermilk. Cheeses are another selection which includes cottage, cream and cheddar-type. There are also fermented milk products such as yogurt and ice cream. All of these milk products should be kept refrigerated. If space and refrigeration facilities are limited the better choice would be evaporated or dry milk. If you are using dry milk and reconstituting it, make sure your water supply is wholesome.

People who choose a more rugged form of camping such as backpacking will need to take into consideration their severely limited space. Select the dried form of the product whenever possible. Dried fruits and meats can be eaten without reconstituting them. Nuts are a good choice because they take little room and are very nutritious. Unless you are sure of a wholesome water supply for reconstituting a dry form of milk, select a canned milk product.

Our Readers Write

Dear Sir:

I was very distressed by the article regarding the dissention against the new Marina. I do hope that these 25 people will realize that there are several thousand other people in Bay St. Louis who do want to see something like this in our small town.

There are many who feel this will not decrease the value of property. Why do people always put "progress" in the same category with "pollution", "devaluation", etc? I hope that the city officials will not be discouraged with this. I must admit that I have been extremely discouraged. Each time I've heard of something new I think "good". Then next comes the Echo with articles of a handful of dissenters. And appalling as it seems they get their way.

I can understand how they feel, but I do hope that a few of us optimists can get together and make as much happy noise as our counterparts. The ones for progress (not necessarily younger people) need to start getting together and take stands backing these new projects in our area so that jobs and money can come into our sleepy little town. And I know it won't hurt us one bit!

Lydia Schultz
Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Dear Sir:

We feel that it is time for someone to come forward and speak favorably for the proposed Marina which is tentatively scheduled to be built at the site of the Old American Legion Home at the foot of Washington Street.

For the past three weeks the only letters and articles to appear in the paper have been from opponents of this project. One of their complaints have been that there have been no public meetings to discuss this project. We had an open meeting, which was announced in the Echo, on the 6th of June. A program was presented by representatives of the engineering firm and the Mayor and Councilmen were present. Only two people who were not known showed up for this meeting.

As for the city that the city is trying to create a "strip" on the beach front, we feel that this is a false and totally unfounded statement. The actions of some of the people opposing this project at the city council meeting were childish and totally unwarranted. For some of the opponents of this Marina have totally missed the point that this is a good thing which the Marina can represent.

After reporting these facts the proposed Marina will be a welcome addition to the city and the city officials will be able to see the difference and support this project. We feel that the city officials are to be commended for an understanding of this issue.

The final reason we request confinement of one's pet is one that is of deep concern to every humane group, as it is to any humanitarian. Pet population control. These roaming-at-large-pets breed indiscriminately, uncontrolled, adding to an already over-populated animal world. If you do not believe this, just take a look around. See the many beautiful, appealing animals thrown out as strays. No one wants them. Take a ride to the Waveland Shelter at the end of Spruce St. and look at the handsome, intelligent animals who are left to their own resources.

We of the Bay-Waveland Humane Society beg the people of Waveland to cooperate with their city government and with us. Help us to have an animal program of which we can all be proud. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Bay-Waveland Humane Society
Mrs. Marie Hoefeld, President

Bay St. Louis Jaycees
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

The Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc. would like to remind the people of Waveland that an ordinance does exist, both state-wide and on a city level, relative to dogs roaming at large.

The city ordinance was passed some months back and many of the citizens, especially our most welcome summer visitors, may not be aware of this.

An animal running at large is subjected to many hazards. After all Waveland is not the small country town it was years ago. Traffic has increased, and so have bike riders and pedestrians.

Unleashed dogs off the owner's property are being picked up in ever increasing numbers. The owner can redeem said animal, get the rabies immunization and city license for his pet, but if the animal is allowed to continue running loose, the owner will be fined. This is the law.

We, as a Humane Society, are making a point of bringing this to the owner's attention now because our telephones are busily ringing with the complaints that unrestrained dogs are chasing and biting children, as well as adults, who walk past or ride their bikes. This is a very serious matter and subjects the owner to a law suit. This could so easily be avoided by owners keeping their animals behind fences or on leash when exercising their pets.

The Bay-Waveland Humane Society just like any other humane group, does not recommend the tying or chaining of any animal as a means of restraint. From the dog howls, barks, whines, etc., and our phones begin to ring again. The nerves of the innocent neighbors cannot take this assault and we are called in to help. This we do, for the disturbing of the peace is not allowed either. But we prefer to avoid these situations, if possible.

FERTILIZE LAWNS
Home lawns should be fertilized for growth, to thicken sod and help in weed control and to give them that desired dark green color.

Lawns need nitrogen for growing the dark green leaves, phosphorus for seed production and seed germination and potash for root development. Normally the phosphate and potash are applied in the fall. Most of the time only nitrogen is applied in the summer.

Fast release sources of nitrogen include mixed fertilizer like 13-13-13, ammonium-nitrate-and-urea. Slower release sources include sewage sludge, cottonseed meal and urea formaldehyde.

Usually no nitrogen is recommended for application after August unless the lawn is composed of cool season grass. When using a fast release source of nitrogen, be sure to wait until the dew has dried before application and after application, water the fertilizer down into the soil.

BRUCELLOSIS VACCINATION
The goal is that every heifer to be used as a replacement in either a beef or dairy herd be vaccinated against brucellosis this year.

Also known as "Bang's Disease", brucellosis is a serious economic problem. It is costly in aborted calves, non-breeder cows and the loss of brood cows that are reactors and have to be sold for slaughter.

Funds were made available July 1 through an appropriation by the 1974 State Legislature to support the vaccination program.

Dr. Harvey McCrory, state veterinarian, states that nearly 100 percent vaccination of replacement heifers for the next five years or more will be required to achieve the brucellosis-free condition.

He adds, "We strongly urge every cattle owner in the state, both beef and dairy, to have his heifer calves vaccinated. He can do this at no expense to himself."

Cattle should be vaccinated as soon as possible after three months of age. For help in scheduling your calves for vaccination, contact your practicing veterinarian, the state veterinarian's office or your county agent.

FEEDING MOLDSY CORN
Feeding moldy corn to gilts during the gestation period can be costly. Two Ohio tests showed that gilts fed moldy corn during gestation resulted in smaller litters, with an average of three less live pigs per litter and two more mummified pigs per litter than gilts receiving normal corn.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at the local VA office.

Q-I was separated from military service in April 1973. Am I eligible for Veterans Group Life Insurance issued by the Veterans Administration?

A-Probably yes. But under provisions of PL 93-289 (May 1974) which established this five-year, nonrenewable term insurance as of Aug. 1, 1974, you must apply to VA for it within one year of its effective date.

Q-I understand the Veterans Administration has plans for use of the powerful communication satellite launched in May from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Will you explain how?

A-Briefly, the agency plans to use the spacecraft and 10 of its hospitals to explore for 11 months new methods of exchanging medical information for education and clinical purposes.

Q-What's this "Man on the Campus Program" I keep hearing about?

A-It's an all-out effort by the Veterans Administration to insure prompt delivery of GI Bill educational assistance checks, and otherwise "trouble shoot" other problems which arise on college campuses between the veteran, the school and the VA regional office. Veterans benefits counselors, veterans themselves and called "vet-reps", will function as expeditors, assisting veterans in the program which begins in fall 1974.

Q-As a widow of a serviceman killed during military service in Vietnam, am I entitled to education assistance from the Veterans Administration to attend a university in Paris?

A-Yes. Under a law enacted in October 1972, wives, widows, and children of veterans whose deaths or permanent total disabilities were service-connected are allowed to study at approved foreign institutions of higher learning.

BYGONE DAYS

5 YEARS AGO...
On the eve of July 4th, the birthday of our nation, the youth of all faiths in the Bay St. Louis area will gather at the Municipal Pier for a service of thanksgiving and prayer for the nation and its leaders. It will be followed by a beach party to celebrate our nation's birthday.

10 YEARS AGO...
Bay St. Louis construction activity continues to set records as building permits for the first half of 1974 total over three quarters of a million dollars.

25 YEARS AGO...
"Strawberries can be raised in Hancock county and let's raise them," Howard Simmons, county agent, said Tuesday night at the meeting of farmers and other interested citizens who had gathered to discuss the raising of strawberries for market in this county.

50 YEARS AGO...
Bay St. Louis is very liberal with its parking and other restrictions, and surely there is no room for complaint on the part of the motorist. In Biloxi no car parks longer than 20 minutes on Howard Ave., the main street of that city. Our narrow streets are a constant source of danger; a menace of no small proportion, and wider streets are the only way of solving a problem getting more complex every day.

Pass Yacht Club to celebrate founding

The Pass Christian Yacht Club will hold a dance Saturday July 13 to celebrate the birth of yachting in the South at Pass Christian.

The second oldest yacht club in the nation—New York Yacht Club has the distinction of being the oldest—the Pass Yacht Club was founded at Montgomery's Hotel, the site of the present V.F.W. Hall, on July 21, 1849 in Pass Christian and was known as The Southern Yacht Club.

To celebrate the founding, a grand regatta was held on that date with eleven boats from

New Orleans to the west and Mobile to the east. Southern Yacht Club remained headquartered in Pass Christian in the summer months—until—1879—when a permanent club house was built in New Orleans.

Ten years later (1889), Pass Christian Yacht Club was organized and has been the scene of great sailing activities—in 1893 forty yachts took part in one regatta—to the present day.

The present club house is located on a man-made peninsula of oyster shells, the results of an oyster cannery in that location at the turn of the century, which also forms the east side of the Pass Christian small craft harbor.

Rene—Louapre's—New Orleans Society Band will play at the dance, which begins at 8:45 p.m. with a receiving line of the commodores and their ladies.

Guests of honor will be the living commodores of the club: Fred A. Sutter, 1939-40; Cary E. Spence, 1941; Arthur B. Tipping, 1952; Gordon E. Bishop, 1962; Wm. Perry Brown, 1963-64; H. H. Hillyer, Jr., 1965-66; Dr. George W. Byrne, 1967; George E. Morse, 1968; Charles Pearson, Jr., 1969; Fernand J. Milhas, Jr., 1970; Sydney Ellis, Jr., 1971; John V. Dugan III, 1972; Michael S. Rafferty, 1973; and the present commodore, Elmer Scott, 1974.

383 families belong to the PCYC. Elmer H. Scott is commodore. Members of the board of directors are Jean M. Luck, vice commodore; Michael S. Rafferty, rear commodore; Sydney Ellis, Jr., secretary; John V. Dugan III, treasurer; Tom Bourdin, Dr. George W. Byrne, Ashael W. Cooper, Jr., Robert L. Erichsen, Lewis Levy, Jr., George E. Morse, and Ducros Stouse.

Mississippi Folk Heritage focus for state bicentennial

Of the many beneficiaries of Mississippi's participation in the Smithsonian Institution's Festival of American Folklife, none stand to gain more than the state's municipalities. Secretary of State Heber Ladner announced today that mayors, Chamber of Commerce directors, and local Bicentennial leaders throughout Mississippi will be provided in booklet form extensive information on the state's rich and diverse folk heritage and the bearers of that heritage. To be published this fall, this booklet will condense the field research of Smithsonian folklife experts.

"What this means," Ladner stated, "is that any community that so desires can select one or more aspects of our folklife heritage and make its Bicentennial festivities revolve around it." Ladner continued, "Besides providing an educational experience and family type entertainment, these local festivities have great potential for increasing tourism in Mississippi in 1975 and 1976."

Dedicated to the theme, "A Past to Honor: A Future to Mold," the Mississippi American Revolution Bicentennial Commission was the first state agency or commission to endorse Mississippi's participation in the 8th annual Festival which will be held July 3-7 in Washington, D.C. Commission Director Perry A. Snyder explained the Commission's endorsement thus: "The 200th Anniversary of the United States should be a time not only a great achievement and accomplishment, but also of cultural enrichment and enjoyment. The Commission enthusiastically supported the Festival because it wants to share with all of our people the excitement of Mississippi's folk traditions."

Already, a number of mayors have expressed interest in staging community folklife festivals as part of their municipalities participation in the National Bicentennial. Bicentennial matching funds shortly will be available to assist communities in this Festival USA programming. Thus far, interest has been particularly keen in the areas of fiddling, folk foods, and traditional needlework.

"Our goal," Snyder concluded, "is for the Festival experience in Washington, D.C. to be just the beginning of 2½ years of rich Bicentennial festivities throughout Mississippi." For additional information on the Festival, contact the Mississippi American Revolution Bicentennial Commission at P.O. Box 571, Jackson, Mississippi 39205.

Precautions listed to control ticks

Dr. Durward Blakey, Director of Disease Control for the Mississippi State Board of Health, reminds state residents that summer is the time of the year when ticks are most prevalent and that infection caused by tick bites can lead to Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever.

"All animals and pets should be inspected regularly," Dr. Blakey said. "If possible, dogs and cats should be deticked or wear a tick collar."

"Children should be checked frequently, particularly after they have been outside in an infested area and remove ticks promptly," he said.

Blakey said ticks may roam about on the body for several hours before they find a suitable place, attach, and engorge themselves.

The sooner ticks can be removed, the less likelihood that they will transmit diseases," he said.

To remove ticks, forceps or tweezers are preferable and hands should be washed immediately afterwards.

according to Dr. Blakey. A good shower or bath will remove many ticks before they become attached.

If the home is infested, Blakey recommends that the residents hire a licensed pest control company, but the necessary pesticides can be purchased at most farm and seed stores, he said.

Before attempting to treat premises for ticks, one should eliminate as much harborage as possible by cutting grass, trimming heavy underbrush and shrubbery, and cleaning up rubble, Dr. Blakey said. This will eliminate harborage, reduce the amount of pesticide needed and make the treatment more effective.

A person should not misuse the pesticides while exterminating ticks in and around his home, Blakey added.

"While some pesticides are safe, there are others, if misused, can be hazardous," he said. For more information on control of ticks or correct use of pesticides, residents should contact the local health department in the county.

Congressional hearings set for seafood industry

Congressman Trent Lott announced from Washington this week hearings on the seafood industry will be conducted in Biloxi later this summer.

Lott is a member of the Fisheries and Wildlife Subcommittee of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, which will be discussing problems and solutions to the nation's seafood industry when the hearings are conducted in the late weeks of July or early August.

Committee Chairwoman Leanne Sullivan (D-Mo.)

informed Lott that the subcommittee will conduct hearings in Biloxi, New Orleans, and Corpus Christi, Texas. The hearings in Biloxi will be conducted over a period of one to two weeks.

Lott said he had been trying for a year and a half to get the committee to conduct hearings on the Mississippi coast. He said it is an excellent opportunity for local fishermen and others in the seafood industry to express their views to a Congressional committee.

"I'm very much looking forward to these hearings," he said. "In a sense it's like bringing the government home to the people."

Other members of the subcommittee include Congressmen David Bowen of Mississippi, David Treen of Louisiana, and John Breaux of Louisiana.

Those wishing to testify before the subcommittee when it opens hearings in Biloxi should make their intentions known in writing to Congressman Lott at 1712 Longworth Building, Washington, D. C. 20515.

Idea had limitations since the city had jurisdiction over only one light at the intersection of Cleveland Ave. and Railroad street. "This light," he said, "is at a main intersection where a lot of children cross. The ordinance was not voted upon, but taken under consideration."

The second ordinance requiring motorcyclists to wear helmets within city limits passed unanimously.

In other business the board made a donation of $50 to the Long Beach Chapter of DeMolay to defray expenses of operating a booth at the Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo.

Four New Series To Begin On ETV

Four outstanding new series are scheduled to premiere beginning Sunday, July 7, on the Mississippi Educational Television Network (Channels 19, Biloxi; 14, Meridian; 17, Bude; 23, Greenwood; 29, Jackson; 18, Oxford-University; and 2, Mississippi State).

Filed by the Japanese to show the beauty, dignity and craftsmanship of their country, "Journey to Japan" can be seen at 6:30 p.m. on Sundays and again at 9 p.m. on Mondays.

With vignettes seldom seen by the visiting traveler, each program presents intimate and colorful glimpses of the Japanese people at work and at play. Japanese culture is dealt with in dances and community festivals, in regions of scenic or historical interest, in folk crafts of northeastern Japan, and in such Japanese art forms as flower arranging, landscaping and lacquer painting.

It's champagne, bubbles and soft summer nights—13 weeks of extravagantly beautiful entertainment—when "Evening at Pops" with Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra begins its fifth season at 7 p.m., immediately after "Journey to Japan."

Marian Anderson, Benny Goodman, the Carpenters, Peggy Lee, the Modern Jazz Quartet, Roger Williams, Eileen Farrell and other luminaries will appear not only at the 7 p.m. Sunday viewing time, but also at 8:30 p.m., Thursdays and at 1 p.m., Fridays.

"The Edwardians" is the name of the new series of "Masterpiece Theatre" presentations, and a different program will be shown at 8 p.m. each Sunday, repeating at that hour on Fridays. "Lloyd George" is scheduled for Sunday, July 7, and in subsequent weeks such delightful productions as "Mr. Rolls and Mr. Royce" and "Conan Doyle" will be on tap.

"Man Builds, Man Destroys" is a series about the environment—all over the world—what has happened to it and what people are doing about it. Two of the programs are encores from last year's series but the other 9 are all new. Air time is 8 p.m., Mondays and 9:30 p.m., Thursdays, beginning July 8.

Mobile-Medic has backing of local governments, businesses

by Bob Jones

With less than two weeks remaining in the Mobile-Medic Ambulance Service's membership drive the city governments and chambers of commerce of Long Beach and Pass Christian have all unanimously endorsed the new service.

The drive now underway will conclude July 15 and city officials say that 15,000 members are needed. Other organizations joining in the backing include the Pass Christian Ladies Auxiliary to V.F.W., post 5931 and area merchants.

"The cost for membership is $15.00 per year which covers any number of people in a family up to age 21. They will receive an unlimited amount of transports throughout the year."

Only weeks ago coast funeral homes announced the discontinuance of ambulance services effective Aug. 1. Funeral Home directors have endorsed Mobile-Medic and are encouraging customers to join the service.

One ambulance call will cost a member nothing unless the service is required outside the county. Emergencies and doctor authorized transfers within a member's county are rendered at no charge.

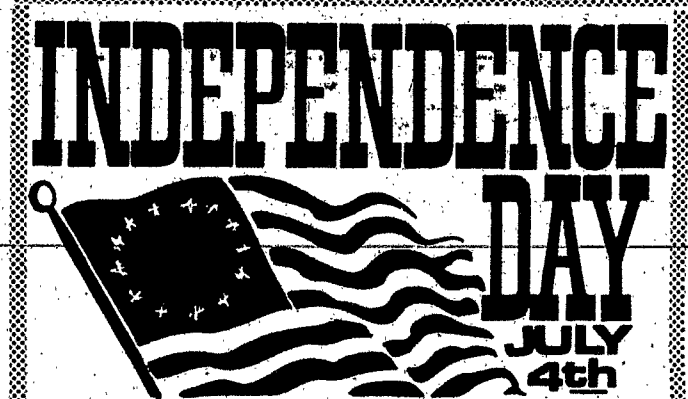

For non-members one ambulance call will cost $40 and emergency calls $45, with an additional charge of $5 for oxygen. The firm will cover all of Hancock and West Harrison counties.

Members can receive emergency ambulance service to the nearest medical facility at no charge on a reciprocal basis.

The membership drive ending July 15 is the last opportunity to sign up for the service this year, a company spokesman said. However, new families in the county will be allowed to join upon arrival. The next chance to join the service will be July 1 of the following year.

All memberships expire July 31 at 11:59 p.m.

Judith Ladner becomes bride of Terry Helms

Miss Judith Ann Ladner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Filman Ladner of Pass Christian, became the bride of Terry Clark Helms, son of Mr. and Mrs. Odle Lee Helms, Gulfport, at a Nuptial Mass at 3:30 p.m., Sunday, June 23, in our Lady of the Gulf Catholic church.

Rev. Michael Tracey, associate pastor, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with arrangements of white summer flowers flanked by potted palms. Ricky Ladner and Steve Seymour of Bay St. Louis, served as altar boys and John Ladner, Gulfport, cousin of the bride, was commentator.

Mrs. John McKenna, organist, accompanied S.J. Marengo, Gulfport, who sang Hawaiian Wedding Song, Ave Maria, Wedding Prayer, and On This Day, O Beautiful Mother. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal Victorian gown of pearl white imported French silk. The bodice was designed with a yoke of tiny silk tucks below a close throat of Alencon lace etched with tiny pearls. Matching lace sculptured the shoulders and lifted lines of the demi-bodice. The sleeves of silk were trimmed and held taut at the wrists with re-embroidered lace. Sheered Brussels lace edged the neckline and sleeves. The fullness of the billowy skirt elaborately edged with re-embroidered Alencon lace drifted into a court length train. Her veil of imported Brussels lace was held by a cameo cap of Alencon lace traced with pearls. She carried a Colonial style bouquet of white sweetheart roses, fleur d'amour, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Jan Ladner attended her sister as maid of honor and Mrs. Cathy Parker, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Belva Shaw, Hattiesburg, Miss, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Jeffie Ladner, sister-in-law of the bride and Miss Bobbie Helms, sister of the groom. Miss Lisa Jefferson, Gulfport, cousin of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid.

They wore gowns of plaid voile in pastel shades and white open straw picture hats trimmed with plaid ribbon streamers in matching shades. They carried Colonial bouquets of summer flowers.

Lane Ford, Gadsden, Ala., cousin of the groom, was best man. Groomsman were Elmer Parker Jr., Gulfport, Terry Shaw, Perkinston, Miss., cousins of the bride, OHS Lopusser, Gulfport, Doug Helms, Virginia, cousin of the groom and Herman Ladner Jr., Gulfport, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Jordan River Shores Club House.

Mrs. Ladner received guests wearing a floor length pink chiffon gown. Tiny lace tucks trimmed the bodice and full sheer sleeves.

The groom's mother chose a long mint green gown. Tiny pearls accented the neckline and sleeves edge. Cymbidium orchid corsages completed their ensembles. Miss Jannie Brown presided at the guest register table. Mrs. Frank Ladner and Mrs. Chester Partridge were at the bride's cake table and Mrs. Kenneth Boutwell cut the groom's cake.

For traveling, the bride chose a long red and white gingham dress with white pique jacket and a corsage of fleur d'amour.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mex., the couple will reside at La Pasada Apartments, Gulfport.

couple shower Friday night, June 14, featuring a barbecue and poolside party at Diamondhead. The hostesses presented the couple with a bar light.

Mr. and Mrs. O.L. Helms entertained with a dinner Saturday evening, June 22, at Annie's Restaurant, Pass Christian, in honor of their son and Miss Ladner following the wedding rehearsal.

Arrangements of spring flowers and lighted tapers decorated the private dining room. Gifts were presented by Miss Ladner to her attendants and to the groomsmen and ushers by Mr. Helms. The prospective groom's gift to the bride-elect was an add-a-pearl necklace and her gift to him was an engraved money clip and cufflinks. The hosts presented the couple with silver champagne glasses.

A highlight of the dinner was the surprise presentation of a double wedding ring cake to Mrs. Ladner on the occasion of her birthday.

On June 21 Miss Jan Ladner, sister of the bride-elect, hosted a bridesmaids luncheon at Annie's Restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Shaw of Hattiesburg entertained Miss Ladner and Mr. Helms at a luncheon June 22 in the Sun Room of Moody's Restaurant, Gulfport. Arrangements of flowers in pastel shades decorated the tables.

ADAMS-It was a close contest to the very end between Bay Waveland and St. Andrew's Bay Yacht Club in the Adams Quarter-Finals of the Women's North American Sailing Championship, but both teams were winners on the Biloxi Yacht Club race course last Saturday.

Jane Allen of St. Andrew's Bay Yacht Club won the first of the four-race Flying Scot series with Ann Stieffel of Bay Waveland a close second. Bay Waveland's team, Weezie Kennedy and Cindy Stieffel crewing, moved ahead early in the second race and finished first with a three minute forty-five second lead over second place St. Andrew's Bay. Bay Waveland won again in the third race. St. Andrew's Bay was again second. The final race ended in almost a photo finish as all four boats crossed the line within about three boat lengths, with St. Andrew's Bay in front and Bay Waveland second.

With an even tie, both Bay Waveland and St. Andrew's Bay won the series and qualify to compete in the Adams Semi-Finals to be sailed in Lightnings at Rush Creek Yacht Club, Dallas, Texas, August 16-18. The winner of the Semi-Finals will be the Area F representative in the Finals for the Adams Cup to be sailed in Lightnings at the Columbia Sailing Club, Lake Murray, South Carolina, August 26-29.

Finals Standings: Bay Waveland Yacht Club-14½ points-Skipper Ann Stieffel, crew Weezie Kennedy, Cindy Stieffel, St. Andrews Bay Yacht Club 14½ points-Skipper Jane Allen, crew Lyn Smith, Jill Barnes, Pass Christian Yacht Club 6 points-Skipper Rosalie Ambler, crew Pat Sanford, Lise Keubel; New Orleans Yacht Club 4 points-Skipper Pat Stinchcomb, crew Kappy Pfaff, Janet Handschue.

NATIONALS-Bay Waveland has set quite a record for itself this year by having its members qualify to represent the Gulf Yachting Association in all five of the North American Sailing Championships. The next step of these respective eliminations is as follows:

MALLORY Semi-Finals (Men) Oklahoma City Boat Club, July 20-21, in Santana 22's. Bay Waveland's skipper Marc Eagan, crew Ed Turnipseed and Walter Chamberlain.

O'DAY (Men's Single-Handed) New Orleans Yacht Club, July 27-28. Buzzy Heausler.

SEARS Semi-Finals (Junior)-Lake Carlyle, Illinois, July 27-28, in Thistles. Skipper Bubby Eagan, crew Ellen Eagan and Chris Stieffel.

SMYTHE (Junior Single-Handed) Semi-Finals, Lake Carlyle, Illinois, July 27-28, in Sunfish. Rod Stieffel.

ADAMS Semi-Finals (Women) RCYC, Dallas, Lightnings, August 16-18.

ITALIAN NIGHT at BWYC was a huge success. The lasagne prepared by the Eagan family was fantastic, well complemented by the Italian salad and dessert, wine, candlelight and accordion music.

The FOURTH OF JULY has fun in store for everyone. First on the agenda is the FISHING RODEO for 12 year olds and under from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Registration will be from 9 to 12 at the Club with entry fee of 25 cents. Prizes will be given for the largest fish and the most fish, including crabs. The Snack Bar will be open all day for lunch and refreshments.

The exciting races will begin with a rigging race for the Scots sailors at 11 a.m., followed by the Grandmother Race. Next will be the Anchor Race, followed by the Single-Handed Race, and the Newcomer Race.

The Sunfish races will have a few innovations too, such as a Backwards Race, Relay Race, teams of three per boat, and the Six-Pack Regatta for 18 year olds and over, with an entrance fee of $2.40 to defray expenses.

To top off the evening the JUNIORS are having a big dance from 8 to midnight at the Club, with music by PULLTIGHT.

BAIL THE BILGE Saturday July 6. Hosts for this special 4th of July week-end cocktail party will be Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Breath, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Woody Santa Cruz.

Superior, Ladner's top men's softball

by Edward Favre
Superior Supply continues to lead the Bay St. Louis Men's Softball League remaining undefeated through July 1st.

In Monday night action Ladners kept alive hopes of challenging Superior for first place in the League by defeating The Krack Bullets 7-3 in the first game.

Ladners scored five runs in the first and second innings, while holding The Krack scoreless until the top of the sixth inning, when they gave up three runs on three hits and one error, making the score 5-3.

In the bottom of the sixth inning Ladners scored two runs taking a 7-3 lead.

In the top of the seventh inning The Krack was unable to score as the first two batters were retired. The next batter walked, and the next batter hit a fly ball to the right fielder to retire the side ending the ball game.

The second game Monday night went nine innings with Pearlington winning their second game of the season by defeating Pest Control 21-20 on a one-out home run by Gene Lewis in the bottom of the ninth inning.

The score was tied at 12-12 at the end of three innings of play, then in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings Pest Control added eight runs for their 20 runs.

Pearlington picked up three runs in the fifth, two in the sixth and three in the seventh to tie the score at 20-20. They held Pest Control scoreless in the eighth and ninth innings and batting in the bottom of the ninth inning with one out Gene Lewis hit a home run over the left field fence to make the final score 21-20.

The following batter got to base on a fielders choice, forcing the lead runner out at second base, for the second out. The third out was also a fielders choice, forcing the lead runner out at second and ending the game. In the second game

Gulf National like money in the bank

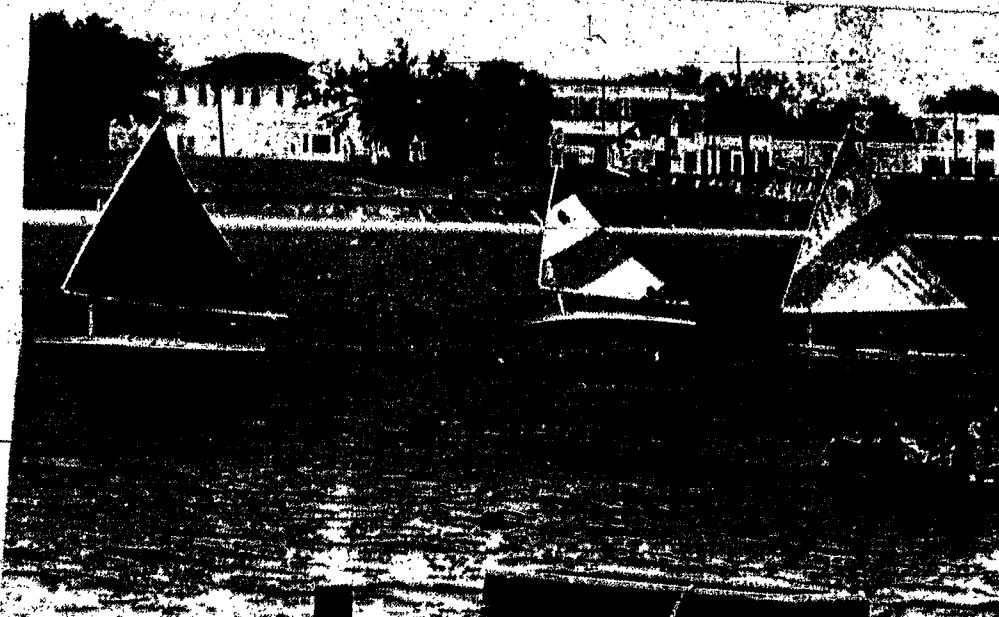

In games in Bay St. Louis Little League action last week, the Jaycees were defeated by Gulf National Bank 16-8 Wednesday while Hancock Bank upset Riemann's 8-1.

In Friday's games, Gulf National Bank continued its string of victories defeating Merchants Bank 16-11, while American Legion won a narrow game with the Jaycees 4-3.

Dwayne LaFontaine rapped his second homerun for the season for the American Legion in the bottom of the first inning.

In Monday's games Riemann's won another squeaker with Merchants Bank 16-15 going seven innings before ending a 15-15 tie. It was Riemann's first win of the season.

In the second game Gulf National Bank defeated American Legion 6-1.

Catching summer breezes

To be your own skipper, to feel the tug of the wind in your sail, the pull of the rope on your hand, is an experience that can't be easily forgotten, and is one part of the summer activities enjoyed by these early adventurers during the St. Stanislaus Summer Camp program.

Back in Mississippi

Returning home for an old fashioned 4th of July barbeque and family reunion, New York Net's star Wendell Ladner was greeted by his parents and hundreds of friends and relatives Saturday. Ladner, who was a key ingredient in the Net's ABA championship this year, will return to Hancock County in August for a special celebration of Wendell Ladner Day. He is a 1966 graduate of Hancock North Central High School. Shown with Wendell are parents Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Ladner of Necaise Crossing.

EYC, St. Rose share youth league top spot

by Edward Favre
St. Rose and EYC appeared to have a tight hold on first place spots in the Youth Softball League as standings through July 2 were being compiled.

EYC and St. Rose girls were tied with records of 4-1 each for a share of the top spot in girls competition, while the St. Rose boys had sole possession of the boys number one position with an undefeated 4-0 record.

In games Tuesday night, St. Rose held on to an early lead to defeat EYC 7-5.

In the second girls' game Our Lady of the Gulf defeated the Little Foxes 17-10 after overcoming a 12-3 lead by OLG in the bottom of the fourth inning. The Foxes picked up six runs in the fifth and one run in the sixth inning. OLG added five runs in the fifth inning.

In boys action St. Rose had an easy time with OLG winning 19-1 in a five inning game. St. Rose took an early 7-0 lead at the end of the first inning, adding nine more runs in the second inning, two in the third and one in the fourth inning. OLG's lone run came in the top of the fifth inning.

Last Thursday night the Little Foxes defeated Annunciation 17-0 in five innings.

The Little Foxes failed to score in the first inning, but from the second inning on they pushed runs across to build up their lead while holding Annunciation scoreless.

Ginger Maurigi was the winning pitcher and Monica Ladner was charged with the loss.

The first boys game went to St. Rose by forfeit over Annunciation by the score of 7-0. The second boys game went the full seven innings with Our Lady of the Gulf defeating the Episcopal Young Churchmen 16-1.

OLG led 3-1 at the end of the first inning and in the third, fourth, fifth and seventh innings added a total of 13 runs to their score, while holding EYC scoreless from the second inning on.

Mike Schwartz was credited with the win for OLG and Jimmy Quintini was charged with the loss for EYC.

MICHAEL COLEMAN

Babe Ruth
PLAYER
Of the
WEEK

June 24-June 28

Coleman selected Player-of-the-Week

Michael Coleman has been named the Bay St. Louis Babe Ruth Player-of-the-Week. Player agent Jim Thriftley said Coleman's selection was based on his outstanding leadership on the field last week in sparking his Dixie Realty teammates to a pair of victories. During his team's win over Hancock Supply the young third baseman blasted out a triple and a single to score two runs. Earlier in the week Coleman showed his versatility by pitching a superb one hit shutout against the American Legion with last week's player-of-the-week, Albert Labat, getting the lone hit. Coleman also struck out nine men during the game.

In the same game Coleman collected two singles and a double that produced six runs batted in while scoring an additional three runs himself. The Dixie Realty player is 15 years old and is in his first year in the Bay St. Louis League. He is looking forward to July 9 and the start of practice for All Star competition.

Am sorry to report the death of our old friend, Jesse Bennett last week. Jesse was an old time fisher and hunter and had his share of enjoying both sports. Sympathy is extended to his family.

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L.S. (Doc) Elliott

The 4th of July holidays will be celebrated in Bay St. Louis in the same old manner with visitors and home folks enjoying fishing, crabbing, swimming, boating and skiing, plus outdoor cook outs and bonfires on the beach.

Camping will be also one of the main features in the woods, on rivers and bayous. Barbecuing takes first place in preparing food for hungry folks.

Fishing parties will be seen most everywhere with every one catching some fish, from the kids to the grownups. The Hancock County Fair and Livestock Assn. will sponsor the annual Rodeo July 5-6 at Bay St. Louis. Local contestants will compete for cash-prizes and trophies with professional riders.

On the fishing side both fresh and salt water things are improving right along. Speckles, flounders and other salt water fish were caught in outside waters while bass and perch were caught in the rivers and bayous in inside waters. Again we state Pearl River is clearing fast and some good fishing is predicted for the next few months in the river proper and its tributaries. Even Morgan Bayou is clear and some bass and perch were caught there over the weekend, by local fishermen.

Guns know that fowl tend to fly higher in good weather than in bad. Low pressure affects their ears. Outdoor life.

While fishing in salt water over oyster reefs be careful if you should hook an oyster fish. They are ugly, have teeth strong enough to open an oyster, with rough skin. Keep your hand away from them or you might lose a finger or two.

Frogging must be a forgotten sport. Don't hear of anyone going after them. Now most lakes, in bayous and road side ditches. A hand grabber is best for catching them. The legs are delicious for eating.

From latest reports speckle trout are still being caught out in front of Waveland and right this side of Bayou Caddy as well as flounders. If you prefer live shrimp then can be gotten from Bordages Fishing Camp up Bayou Caddy. Flounders can be caught on dead shrimp preferably fresh.

Lucky is the man who can go fishing on week days. Almost had to have a traffic cop to direct boats over the past weekend. Labor day holidays will be worse.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK—Finally got a fair picture of Al Vetter. Al is one of our best fishermen. He goes regularly and gets his share of fish. Pretty busy in civic affairs. A popular sportsman.

Both Miss. and La. new fishing licenses are now due. Better get one before going out. Just a reminder. It is cheaper to get a license than pay a fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Griffith are two of our best shell crabbers. Haven't been doing too hot lately, they said.

Fiddlers make excellent bait for catching sheepshead especially along the railroad bridge. They will be coming out with this warm weather. They are caught mostly along bayous and sandy spots.

The bright moon's have been hard on frogging and floundering. They are caught best on the dark of the moon.

Speed limit not likely to change

Federal Highway Administrator Norbert Tiemann said this week that the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit will likely be a permanent one regardless of changes in the oil situation. Tiemann, who is visiting the Mississippi State Highway Department and Federal Highway Office in Jackson, said that he had recommended to Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar that the speed limit remain 55 due to the reduction in traffic fatalities.

However, he said, some rural states with large open stretches of highway may be able to adjust their speeds in the future.

Tiemann, a former governor of Nebraska and recent Nixon appointee to the top highway post, said that nationwide the interstate system will not be completed until the year 2007 under the Highway-Trust-Fund. Although only 7000 miles are left to be built in the U. S., Tiemann said that rising costs in construction and difficulty in building makes 2007 an optimistic completion date.

MSHD Director E. L. Boteler said that Mississippi could finish their interstate construction by 1978 if the state received all the funds needed. Boteler said that the state ranks fifth in interstate completion.

understanding YOUR CAR

FOR SAFETY AND ECONOMY

Almost all drivers have some kind of experience with "getting stuck"—whether it's caused by trouble in the ignition switch, battery, carburetor or any of a dozen simple problems that mean the car won't start, or when it does, doesn't perform properly. Having a little basic knowledge about the car and how it works can be very helpful in diagnosing the most common problems quickly and accurately enough to get back on the road.

"How Not To Get Stuck When You Get Stuck" is what it comes down to, and Gulf Oil has a booklet entitled just that. It offers drivers simple and practical advice about how to get the car running well and keep it that way; a description of some minor do-it-yourself adjustments and repairs and a chapter on what average costs are for repairs and replacement of parts and some ways to avoid overpaying.

Back at Carey

Introducing his small son, Brian, to the basketball game is William Carey College's all-time high scorer, Mike Necaise. Back on the campus for the summer to continue his master's degree in education, the former Crusader star is shown above with Dr. Hugh Dickens, vice-president for development and director of graduate studies. A 1971 graduate, Necaise earned the record for most points scored in a season and for years at Carey. With over 2,000 points to his credit, Necaise had a 29 points-per-game average for his four years. Presently he is a coach at Bay Senior High School.

Construction crews booming at PRJC

There is no building shortage at the Poplarville campus of Pearl River Junior College.

As the summer months move into full swing so is the construction and renovation of five different buildings on the PRC main campus. The projects, amounting to over one and a quarter million dollars, are all scheduled to be completed and in use during the 1974 fall semester.

A new gymnasium and physical education building and diesel mechanics facility are being built from the ground up. Additions to present buildings include the library, cafeteria and dormitories. Three new lighted tennis courts are also being constructed.

The air-conditioned physical education building is taking shape as most of the outside brick work has already been completed. The multi-purpose building can seat 2,500. Coaches offices, class rooms, and dressing facilities are also in the plans.

A diesel mechanics building contract was awarded last week to Leon C. Miles of Columbia and will soon be under construction. This building is being added to house the new diesel mechanic program that will be offered beginning the fall semester.

Library construction will include a media center addition of 5,000 more square feet to the west side of the present facility, which was built in 1968. The addition will include $30,000 of equipment including study rooms, close circuit TV, and other study aids.

The cafeteria addition will include 1,700 more square feet of space as well as a modernnization of the kitchen area. Addition cost is over $200,000. Other renovation includes the laying of nearly 14,000 square feet of tile to the recently renovated dormitories. The three tennis courts will cost $10,000.

PRC construction completed in the last year include: renovation of Moody Hall into a $375,000 fine arts complex; renovation of Huff Hall, a male dorm, $225,000; construction of a new band hall, $144,000; construction of a faculty home, $15,000; and resurfacing of parking areas, $16,230.

The Hancock County Center was completed at a cost of $650,000 and a metal building has been completed adjacent to the Hattiesburg Vo-Tech Center to house the MDTA program.
